

Kathleen Ervin – Proprietor

Kathleen is a fourth-generation grape grower and was raised in a vineyard in Lodi, California. As a child, her jobs in the vineyard included suckering, planting vines, pulling nut grass by hand and helping her grandparents with harvest. After graduating from Saint Mary's College, she worked as a CPA in San Francisco, then continued her financial career in the North Bay, working in the telecommunications industry and making her home in Sonoma. Throughout her business career Kathleen maintained an interest in grapes and wine, eventually purchasing a family vineyard in Lodi and a hillside vineyard in Sonoma. As a two-time breast cancer survivor she has made it her mission to donate a portion of Miracle Hill's profits to breast cancer research. Today Kathleen enjoys raising her two daughters in the vineyard and overseeing the annual journey her grapes make from springtime bloom to bottle.
